The Terrell County RYDC blueprint demonstrates DJJ's added emphasis on education, featuring an expanded educational wing with computer labs and state-of-the-art Promethean interactive learning boards. The construction design also incorporates enhanced security measures including closed-circuit television surveillance, steel cell construction and touch-screen security control panels as part of DJJ's mission to ensure public safety. The secure facility will be operational by the end of October 2016.

###

The Georgia Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) is a multi-faceted agency that serves the needs of this state's young offenders up to the age of 21. The Department employs more than 4,000 men and women at 26 secure facilities and 92 community services offices throughout the state to effect justice and redirect the young lives in the agency's care.

Including those who are placed on probation, more than 50,000 youths are diverted each year to evidence-based community programs, sentenced to short-term incarceration or committed to the Department's long-term custody by the Juvenile Courts. It is the duty of the DJJ Professional Corrections Staff to preserve public safety and safeguard the citizens of Georgia as well as protect the victims of crimes so that they can also rebuild their lives.

At the same time, DJJ holds juvenile offenders accountable for their delinquent conduct by providing them with medical and psychological treatment so the youth can take responsibility for their actions through probation, supervision and secure detention. Specialized education and programs are designed to equip them with the social, intellectual and emotional tools they will need to achieve their successful reentry and reintegration into their former community, workplace and neighborhood settings as more productive and law-abiding citizens.
